Objectives:
Throughout the history of civilization people have perceived same-sex love differently. While in Classical Greece man-boy love was a socio-economic privilege and tradition, in medieval Europe men and women were burned and hanged for what we now call homosexuality. This intellectual history of homosexuality surveys the period in the West from early Greece to the 19th century and also includes a survey of homosexuality in Imperial China (500 BCE-1849) and Pre-Meiji Japan (800-1868). The class will also explore the conjunctions of this history with same-sex love in philosophy, the visual arts, and literature: from Sappho and Plato in Greece and Dante in Italy through the Christian Middle Ages and the Renaissance, including Donatello, Leonardo da Vinci, Michelangelo, Cellini, Christopher Marlowe, and William Shakespeare—to Caravaggio and the Baroque; the Pastoral Elegists; Libertinism and the Gothic. In the spring, the class will continue with the birth of modernity, the 19th century sexologists, the New Woman, Wilde, and the emerging "queer" culture that, by the end of the semester brings us to the present.

final papers due [Group 4 PERFORMS] [reading journals returned] party!

Requirements

1 [Introductory paper]: 2-3 pages: tell a story about: [1] your sexual and/or gender awareness [this can be a “coming out” story or a discovery of the opposite sex or both sexes, etc.; or [2] some gender/sexual experience that has impacted you significantly—an important learning experience. (10 points).

2 [2] Short papers [SP1 & SP2 in syllabus]: 2-3 pages: formal, typed paper that makes a specific point about the material you have read for the weeks prior to the due-date. The idea you develop should be an assertion about a topic that interests you that you develop with details from the reading as your evidence. You may use research materials that relate to the material we have been studying but that were not assigned. You should be prepared to read and discuss these papers in class. Points will be deducted for late papers. [You may use these two papers as a basis for your final paper if you like.] [10 points each = 20]

[3] Quizzes [Q1 & Q2 on syllabus]: two [2] announced quizzes, each of which may cover any of the material that has not been quizzed before: labeled [Q] in syllabus. [possible 10 points each = 20]

4 [Reading Journals]: your informal thoughts about the material you are reading, TYPED and gathered for submission near end of the semester; submit one entry per class; entries will be read in class during the semester, so please bring them with you to class…Hand all entries in together near the end of the semester… [10 points]

5 [Presentations]. The class will be divided into four groups. Each group will research a topic and present it to the class when the group is scheduled. You may use this opportunity to choose a topic for your final research paper. The feedback from the class may help you sharpen your paper. The presentation can be [but need not be] about: [1] a group of queer people, like the Hijras of India; Samurai of Japan; Native American Two-Spirit People [berdache]; [2] a comparison of artists, writers or musicians: like Sappho & Katherine Philips or Aphra Behn; Plato & Shakespeare; Marlowe & Jarman; Caravaggio & Marlowe; etc. or political or military leaders: like Philip of Macedon & Alexander the Great; Queen Christina [Sweden] & Queen Anne [England] who were known or suspected of being what we now call “homosexual” or “ queer” during particular periods of western or eastern history; [3] comparison of particular, historical, sociopolitical, philosophical, cultural, etc. circumstances or events, e.g., pagan vs. Christian tolerance of same-sex love [each at a particular time]. In your presentation, you may use any interesting visual, haptic, or auditory aids. Be as imaginative, startling, quirky, or nasty as you want in order to connect your material to your contemporary audience. Each group should limit its presentation to about 30 minutes, including discussion. Hand in one-page summary at the end of the presentation. [10 points]

6 [Final paper]: At the end of the semester, you will have a final research paper. You must use no fewer than two sources other than the internet and the encyclopedia [though you may use those, too]. You must cite sources in an attached Bibliography using proper MLA Style Sheet form. If you need it, you can buy The Rowman & Littlefield Guide to Writing with Sources in the bookstore. If need be, we will also review forms in class. More details later. [20 points]

(5) Attendance and class participation are both important to this class [10 points].
